

JEFFREY KRIVIS
MARIAM ZADEH

Mariam Zadeh

Mariam Zadeh was an active trial lawyer in New York City until September 11, 2001, at which time her life was dramatically changed. She moved to Los Angeles, obtained her L.L.M. in Alternative Dispute Resolution from the Straus Institute for Dispute Resolution at Pepperdine University, and became a partner with Jeffrey Krivis. As a trial attorney, Mariam spent over a decade handling a variety of litigated disputes in California, New York and New Jersey, practicing for both the plaintiff and defense bar. She specializes in mediating employment, class action, life, health and disability, catastrophic personal injury and commercial matters. Mariam serves on the Board of Directors of the International Academy of Mediators and the California Dispute Resolution Council and has been featured since 2007 as a SuperLawyer in Southern California Super Lawyers magazine and since 2010 in the Best Lawyers in America for her steadfast commitment to achieving equitable results, her personal concern for the parties and her persistence and willingness to work at all hours to attain closure.
